Non-Profit Organisations (NPO) & Lay Persons

1. If a non-profit organisation wishes to render veterinary services, it must comply with certain requirements.

2. Registered veterinarian who takes responsibility for:

   ▪ All medicines
   ▪ All staff involved with the treatment; health and well-being of animals
   ▪ All minimum standards
Non-Profit Organisations (NPO) & Lay Persons

3. Registered facility
4. Registered or authorised staff
5. Compliance with all legislation
6. Submit a constitution
1. NPOs receive donations from the public to enable them to render veterinary services to the pets of the indigent (subsidised services)

2. Private veterinarians do not have the benefit of receiving donations

3. People value services more if they pay for it

4. People often misuse the benefits provided by the NPOs
5. The almoning system (sliding scale for fees based on income) will address this inequality and curtail misuse of the funds of the NPO

6. The almoning system relies on the integrity of the NPO [Board; Directors; CEO and management] to evaluate and validate the financial information provided by the client

7. The benefit of the almoning system is that more animals which really require veterinary services, will gain access to that services
