The South African Veterinary Council (SAVC) hosted a successful Annual Indaba that was held on Thursday, 19 June 2019 at Pheasant Hill, Centurion. The theme of this year’s Indaba focused on Primary Animal Health Care (PAHC) and its importance as a vehicle for delivering veterinary services to communities and the agricultural sector as a whole. Different speakers and key stakeholders from various sectors were invited to participate in the Indaba.

Please read further on this LINK. To view the presentations and recordings, click on the various links below.

Dr Alfred Kgasi, Facilitator

Dr Clive Marwick, SAVC President and the panel of speakers who addressed the points which were brought forward from the day’s discussions.

Dr Noluvuyo Magadla, State Veterinarians (DAFF) & Provinces

Dr Anthea Fleming, NVCG

Dr Peter Oberem, Industry

Prof Moritz van Vuuren, Director Food, Safety and Security, SAVC

Dr Njabulo Moyo, CCS veterinarian

Dr Thresnhi Chetty, SAVC Councillor

Mr Titus Makgato, Chair SA Association of Animal Health Technicians

Dr Jubie Muller, RuVASA

Dr Jacques van Rooyen, Director: Herding for Health, Southern Africa Conservation International

Guest speaker, Mr Thabo Olivier’s passion for promoting sustainable and resilient communities was infectious. His passion for food security stemmed from living in a squatter camp and experiencing hunger and poverty firsthand. In the past nine years of his food security and resilience activism, Thabo has become a life skills coach, mentor, health and wellness consultant, and of late, a motivational speaker. He is also a third term municipal councillor for the Mangaung Metropolitan Municipality.

Dr Clive Marwick, SAVC President and the panel of speakers who addressed the points which were brought forward from the day’s discussions.