Vacant Position: Afrivet Business Management
Techno-commercial Veterinarian

Afrivet Business Management, is a SA based company involved in the management of top, multinational, animal health companies and their products in the local market. Our core focus is to manage our customers’ interest in the local animal health market through dedicated agencies with marketing and sales initiatives to ensure the sustainable growth of our customers’ product ranges in the local market.

We have a vacant position in the technical/marketing division for a highly motivated, self-driven individual with an exceptional ability to communicate with a diverse customer base in a highly technical and innovative environment. A high level of business acumen would be a definite advantage to grow into a management position.

Requirements:
- Relevant veterinary qualification with an in-depth knowledge of parasitology, microbiology, immunology and general herd health principles.
- Ability to work independently and efficiently.
- Strong business acumen and commercial insight
- Exceptional communication skills in English and Afrikaans as well as relevant computer literacy (Microsoft Office + PowerPoint). Being able to communicate in 1 or more local language will be an added benefit.
- Drivers licence and willingness to frequently travel locally.

Duties involved:
- Technical support to field agents on general veterinary issues and product queries.
- Presenting talks at farmer’s days.
- Training of field agents and compilation of training material.
- Follow up of technical queries and problems
- Commercial management of a number of product ranges and general product management
